“CRISIS PSYCHOLOGY”
IN SPECIALITY “PSYCHOLOGY”
MASTER’S LEVEL HIGHER EDUCATION

The educational and professional program “Crisis Psychology” for the preparation of masters in the speciality “Psychology”, which is introduced into the educational process of Kharkiv State Academy of Culture, takes into account the current state and strategic directions and trends in the development of European psychological science and psychological practice. The implementation of the program allows to provide sociocultural and other spheres of social life with highly qualified specialists providing psychological services in the field of crisis psychology.

The peer-reviewed program defines the goals, objectives, content, conditions, methods, techniques and technologies for implementing the educational process that meet European standards for the preparation of masters of psychology and needs of society, in particular its socio-cultural sphere, in specialists providing crisis psychological assistance and promoting development of spiritual potential of an individual and society as a whole.

The educational and professional program is drawn up clearly and logically, embodies modern scientifically based approaches to the implementation of the educational process, ensuring and assessing the quality of training graduates in the specialty of psychology at the master’s level.

The list of competencies and program learning outcomes provided by the educational program meets the actual needs of potential employers and consumers of psychological services.

For a potential employer, a harmonious combination of scientific, theoretical and practical components of professional training of masters of psychology is especially valuable in a peer-reviewed educational and professional program, which ensures the formation of qualified and competitive specialists in the labor market providing psychological services.

Therefore, the educational and professional program in Crisis Psychology developed at Kharkiv Academy of Culture corresponds to a high theoretical, methodological and practical level and can be recommended for training of applicants for higher psychological education at the master's level.
